

A WORD FROM THE PROIS CEO

It's Time To Accessorize Your Hunting Wardrobe With Prois' New Torai Mid-Weight Gloves

I know, I know ... we can't help but beat the drum for our new 2018 Cumbre layering assortment. It's that good. And we are that proud.

For 10 years now, I have dreamed longingly (ok, slight exaggeration but I am rolling with it!) of providing lines of accessories to go along with our already fantastic gear. Solid, performance accessories round out ones entire hunting experience and we are proud to start announcing some of these fine additions for 2018.

So with that, check out the new Torai Mid-Weight Gloves which will be ready for delivery in June! We spent quite a bit of time creating this product that would fit a woman's hand and still have the functionality to withstand the elements. After demo'ing several different fabric specs and fit ideas, we finally came to the table with the Torai Mid-Weight glove.

We thought of everything when we designed out Prois Torai Gloves. These midweight gloves are constructed with 94.5% Polyester 5.5% Spandex shell and insulated with 40 grams of waterproof Thinsulate and lined with Odor-X antimicrobial properties. Odor-X anti-microbial technology targets odor-causing bacteria and wicks moisture away. Prois P shaped silicone print grips on the palmar surface enhance grip. Torai gloves are constructed with C22 TOUCH on front and back of index finger and thumb for touch screen compatibility. The elastic wristband eliminates draft and creates the perfect fit. We lined the bottom portion of the cuff with an ultra plush gray butter pile fleece for added comfort and warmth. These gloves were designed specifically to fit a woman's hand and clip together when not in use to help prevent losing a glove. Although they are initially only available in size medium, the fabric is very stretchy and conforms to fit most women. Torai gloves are THE accessory every female hunter needs in her pack.

I have actually tested these gloves in Colorado and Texas ... and soon in Washington. They far exceeded my expectations and I am 100% certain the Prois Posse will love them too. I found the fit to be perfect. They have windstopper technology and are water resistant. What I really like is how compliant they are. Often, mid-weight gloves are stiff and unyielding. I find this frustrating when I am trying to get into my packs. I also look for a glove that allows me to climb and use my hands unhindered. They have a soft, supple feel on the interior as well. I honestly feel these gloves are a perfect turn-key accessory that requires no break-in period.

They are indeed better than bread ... sliced or unsliced.

Watch for press releases and informational items about delivery dates and new products from Prois! For more information visit proishunting.com. Media members may contact Kirstie Pike at Kirstie@proishunting.com

Prois CEO Kirstie Pike

